It's time for bed and your room awaits – each with a bathroom ensuite. The “Escarpment Suite”, for the bride, is specially made with a cozy conversation nook, a private balcony, and an adjoining room overlooking acres of unspoiled countryside. They prepare for bed knowing that tomorrow the hairdresser, manicurist, makeup artist, florist, photographer and wedding planner will show up bright and early. The services have been pre-arranged by the bride and are accommodated by Stone Edge Estate. Nothing is left to chance.

The bridal party awakes early and has a sumptuous breakfast. The menu includes fresh fruit, a variety of fruit juices, waffles and syrup, eggs, bacon, croissants, and fresh muffins. With advance notice, special dietary requests can be arranged.

Breakfast has been enjoyed and it's time to spend a little pre-wedding girl time. The bride's gown hangs in the spacious closet; her attendant's gowns await them in their rooms. Mirrors adorn the spacious bedrooms, waiting to reflect the image of each girl as they dress for the wedding. A light lunch has been ordered to ensure no one faints from hunger. Feeling satiated, the bride and her attendants prepare for their magical entrance at the church in just a few short hours.

The photographer takes candid shots as the bridal party emerges, transformed into images of perfection for this very special day. Natural light helps capture the radiance of the bride as she comes down the winding staircase in her stunning bridal gown. The photographer takes additional shots outdoors as the Estate is a perfect backdrop with the limo waiting in the circular drive. The bride can also be posed against a historic barn, both rustic and romantic.

After the wedding, Stone Edge Estates accommodates the bride's grandparents as they are elderly and have special needs. There is an elevator with wheelchair access, wide doors and a bathroom that provides easy access to both the shower and sink.

Peace, tranquility and romantic ambiance are a just few words that describe the estate. It's a wonderful venue for the bride, her wedding party and even her family!
